

Charity Agencies Warn Public on Phony Solicitors

An appeal to Torrance area housewives was made today by Albert Tassi, general manager of the St. Vincent de Paul Salvage Bureau, to check the credentials of men who go from door to door soliciting salvage.

Many of them claim to represent the St. Vincent de Paul agency or other similar authorized charity organizations. "Most of these men are skid-row types who rent trucks by the day and use the profits to finance a wine binge," Tassi said.

"These men not only misrepresent themselves to the donors and misuse the funds given to them in charity, but they are operating in violation of an ordinance which prohibits such illegal solicitation," he stated.

Housewives were advised to request credentials when a "salvage man" calls. All legal agencies are endorsed by the Los Angeles Department of Social Service and all truck drivers carry authorized cards.

The name of the agency is also plainly painted on the side of each truck, Tassi said.

Clothing, furniture, old newspapers, household articles and other salvageable goods can be donated by calling TE 4-4533, in the Harbor area.

Air Force Offers Similar Grades to All Veterans

The Air Force is now accepting veterans of Army, Navy, Marines or Coast Guard in the grades in which they left those services, up to E-7, if they hold one of the skills needed in the Air Force. The USAF recruiting office, 1319 1/2 Sartori St., announced today.

Technical Sergeant Duane K. Hetler, office manager, USAF recruiting office here announced that USFA headquarters is also opening enlistment rules to take in more Air Force men who have had a break in service.

Torrance Ranks Third Place in County Building

Torrance retained its third place ranking among Los Angeles County cities for the first 9 months of 1959, a Torrance Chamber of Commerce Statistical report revealed this week.

Boys' Republic Begins Work on Holiday Wreaths

It's Christmas wreath-making time again in Southern California's unique Boys' Republic, in Chino.

Chief Supervisor Ed Keating of Ghino's 53 year old non-profit boy rehabilitation farm ushered in the school's 38th Annual Della Robbia Christmas wreath season this week by instructing new boys in the preparation of the 70 thousand mailing brochures.

The holiday enterprise has helped Boys Republic in California become a self-sustaining boy-community and has enabled the youngsters to ask "for customers . . . not contributions." Many of the nation's most famous names and organizations are among the recipients of the Della Robbia.

Wreath making begins around Thanksgiving, although the boys have been gathering the 15 varieties of seed pods and cones during week end trips all through 1960, Keating said. These trips have taken them as far north as Ventura and south to Imperial Valley. Redwood foliage and bright fall fruit are brought in at the last moment to add a touch of inch diameter wreaths, $7.50 color to the famous wreath, and $12.50, may be sent to Orders for the 20 and 30 Boys' Republic, Chino.
